

The impacts of climate change are happening right now across California: droughts, wildfires, extreme heat, air and water pollution. According to the latest scientific research, we only have until 2030 to determine how to stop the most catastrophic impacts of the climate crisis.

Climate action is an urgent imperative and it is our best opportunity to address injustice at scale, touching every part of California's economy and infrastructure. At California Environmental Voters, we believe that radical change is necessary and that only by transforming our political system by electing environmental champions, will we create the opportunity to take the bold action needed on climate change.

California Environmental Voters, a 501(c)(4) organization, is in a unique position, in that it is the non-partisan, non-profit organization that serves as the political arm of California's environmental movement. We are the state's voice—statewide and nationally—and our goals are to:

- Cultivate and elect environmental champions
 - Turn electoral victories into policy wins
 - Hold lawmakers accountable, and
 - Build political power among all communities, including underserved communities, to achieve climate justice.
- California Environmental Voters inspires hope and action and fights for equity—from voting rights to clean air and water—for all Californians.

Eco Power Caucus

Members of the Eco Power Caucus include individual and organizational benefactors who prioritize the environment. By becoming a member of the Eco Power Caucus, you join a community of donors who are demanding Bold Climate Action and making their voices heard on the environment.

The Eco Power Caucus is California Environmental Voters' 501(c)(4) leading annual fund program and provides unrestricted operating support. Funds raised through the Eco Power Caucus provide essential resources for EnviroVoters' year-round initiatives which build power across all regions of the state, educate the public on the most pressing environmental issues, elect environmental champions, expand voting rights, shape the public narrative around climate, and ultimately protect our future for generations to come.

“Environmental leadership starts at EnviroVoters. They are my go-to group for identifying new and innovative policy proposals to combat the climate crisis and to strengthen protections for clean air and water for our communities.”

Ash Kalra, California State Assemblymember, District 27

“California Environmental Voters' involvement in this race was pivotal. They stood in solidarity with local residents who demand inclusion and equity.”

Eloise Gómez Reyes, California State Assemblymember, District 47

“California Environmental Voters is the only statewide organization working to elect pro-environmental decision-makers in California. It's easy to get behind them and invest in their work.”

Dan Chia, Senior Manager, Business Development & Policy, Tesla

“California Environmental Voters is known for their crucial state and federal endorsements. In supporting EnviroVoters, we became aware of their depth of experience in cultivating and electing environmental champions at the regional and city levels too.”

Nancy Sutley, Chair of White House Council on Environmental Quality (2009-2014)

“We need to expand knowledge about voting and access to voting for women, people of color, and young people. EnviroVoters' efforts to expand the electorate and make civic participation accessible is one critical step in achieving climate justice and overcoming the climate crisis facing our world.”

Nicole Taylor, President and CEO, Silicon Valley Community Foundation

“Our elected officials are accountable to the people and California Environmental Voters ensures that the public knows how our legislators vote when it comes to environmental policy. The transparency they provide is vital to an effective democracy and deserves our support.”
